Abandoned, mistreated animals face harsh fate

• Volunteers hope to fund shelter

By ALISON ALOISIO

Kathy Faren of West Bethel paid $600 -- out of her own pocket -- to rescue three cocker spaniels from an area pet store recently.

"The cage had not been cleaned, the puppies were dirty, their eyes were red," she said. "I bought them to get them out of there."

When she brought them back to the Bethel Animal Hospital (where she is a veterinary assistant), she found they had ear infections. One required minor surgery for an open sore on his stomach.

Now, she's trying to find homes for them.

Faren, like other animal caregivers and volunteers in the area, tries to lend a helping hand where she can to animals in need. And there are plenty of them.

"We at BAH get a lot of calls from people who want to put healthy animals down. They're moving, or they have a pregnant cat. Or someone brings in a kitten. "We have no facilities to keep them. Sometimes I take them home," she said.

There are times people don't even bother to bring the animals to the vet or animal control officer.

"I find well-fed puppies with no collars -- they'd been taken off -- on a back road, patiently waiting for the person who dropped them off to pick them up," said Pam Conkright, Bethel's animal control officer.

She believes such incidents -- while not commonplace -- happen when people renting in the area decide they don't want the responsibility of a dog. She said local

McDonald's is not coming

By MICHAEL DANIELS

There will be no McDonald's in Bethel Station.

In Bethel, perhaps, but not any time soon.

Bethel Station developer Henne Merrill acknowledged last week that negotiations with McDonald's Corporation had broken down.

A site in the development had been prepared for the fast food giant, across the parkway from the intersection with Lincoln Street, but a deal was not concluded.

Merrill blamed the failure on a decision by McDonald's Corp. to delay the building of further outlets in the north in New England.

McDonald's Corporation is only one of the many major retail stores and its domestic business was described in an Oct. 9 Wall Street Journal article as "faced by mounting sales, heavy competition and factory relocations."

But a spokeswoman for McDonald's eastern headquarters in Boston emphatically denied Merrill's claim that further expansion here has been delayed.

"Absolutely not," said Dina Witten. "There's no slowdown."

The company is still very interested in placing more outlets in Maine, Witten claimed, including rural Maine. "Small towns are important to us," she said.

The discussion regarding a Bethel Station site had been "very preliminary," she said. "We look at a lot of sites."

The decision not to place an outlet in Bethel Station was made, Witten said, for a variety of reasons.

She declined to comment further on the reasons.

Witten said McDonald's is still interested in placing an outlet in Bethel, but is not currently looking at any other specific sites here.

Merrill said Tuesday he had no other immediate prospects -- fast-food or otherwise -- for the Bethel Station.

The loss of a possible McDonald's was the third significant setback in less than six weeks for the development.

Just last month the U.S. Postal Service backed off -- in the face of public pressure -- on its plans to move the Bethel Post Office to Bethel Station.

And earlier this month Sunday River Ski Resort announced it was selling its ski tram.

Vote Tuesday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Election Day 1996 is Tuesday, Nov. 5. Maine voters will join their fellow citizens across the nation in electing a president. They will also select two representatives for the state, as well as a new senator, to replace retiring Republican William Cohen.

Locally, voters will elect the people who will represent them in Augusta, and fill a number of Oxford County offices.

Maine senate

Most of the towns in The Citizen's circulation area are in State Senate District 24, where incumbent Norman K. Ferguson (R-Hanover) is being challenged by Democrat Douglas Lothrop of Rumford.

West Paris is a part of Senate District 25, where Republican Richard Bennett is battling Democrat Brian Sessions for the seat being vacated by Dana Hanley. Both candidates are from Norway.

Hanley, a Republican from Paris, is seeking election as judge of probate. He is opposed by Democrat David Whittier of Hebron.

Maine House

In House District 65, which includes most SAD44 towns, incumbent Republican Al Barth of Bethel is facing a challenge from Democrat Rockie Graham, also of Bethel.

Barth and Graham also went head to head in 1992, in a race won easily by Barth.

In Woodstock, House District 68, incumbent Robert Cameron (R-Rumford) is being challenged by Democrat Donna Trundy of Rumford.

Greenwood and West Paris are in House District 68, where Democrat Charles Clark of Norway is seeking the seat held by Tom Winsor (R-Norway).

County offices

In addition to picking a judge of probate, Oxford County voters will also elect a treasurer, register of probate, and county commissioner (in District 1).

Three candidates are seeking the treasurer's office, which became vacant when incumbent Republican Williams Perkins resigned earlier this year.

The three are: Reform Party member Peter Morrison of Oxford, Democrat Mary Ann Frue of Rumford, and Republican Freda Truman of Norway.

Incumbent Register of Probate Theodore Tracy (R-Hebron) is running unopposed for a new term, as is County Commissioner Steven Merrill (R-Norway).

Voters in NOVA-member communities will also be asked to approve building a $5.9 million vocational-education facility. The NOVA vote will appear on its own ballot.

Referendum questions

Voters will also pass judgment on eight referendum proposals, including the controversial clearcutting ban. A specimen ballot excerpt with all the referendum questions appears on page 6.

Is the train haunted?

By ALISON ALOISIO

Cindy Beaton, manager of the Iron Horse Bar and Grill, says she's not one to believe in ghosts.

But some unexplained incidents aboard Sunday River's train restaurant in Bethel do have her -- and other employees -- wondering. "It's just that there have been so many incidents," she said.

A few examples: "Sometimes it sounds like footsteps on the metal plates in the doorways between the cars," she said. "Then I look up, and there's nobody there." One night, she thought she saw a white-shirted shoulder

Andover water woes

Feds move toward lawsuit

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Environmental Protection Agency has asked the U.S. Department of Justice to file a lawsuit against the Andover Water District, seeking to enforce the Safe Drinking Water Act.

According to an Oct. 25 Maine Public Utilities Commission report, Gregory Kennan, senior litigation counsel for the EPA, contacted the PUC last week regarding the action.

The Water District has been under EPA order since 1993 to comply with the act, by either installing a filtration system on the existing reservoir or setting up a completely new water system.

But problems and controversy regarding how to proceed have slowed the district's efforts.

Because it will take some time for the Justice Department to process the EPA request, "for the next 30 days or so there is a window of opportunity for the EPA and the Water District to negotiate a solution that would enable the District to satisfy the SDWA requirements," the PUC report said.

"One of the possible results might be for the Water District and EPA to agree to a compliance schedule that might be embodied in a consent decree that would then be adopted in a Federal District Court order."

A conference call was scheduled for this week to discuss negotiations.

Emerson resigns

Who the EPA will negotiate with, however, is uncertain. Trustee Anne Glazier resigned last week after five months on the board, and trustee Fred Emerson resigned last Friday. That leaves only trustee and board chairman Roger Mills.

"He said he was resigning because he believed that his resignation might help the Water District," the PUC report said, and was hoping that "somebody else with a different vision for the Water District might be able to step in. Mr. Emerson emphasized that, in the 30-day time frame available, it is still possible for the Water District to get something done."

Bill Black, PUC counsel, said

AM I EXPECTED TO LIE TO KEEP GUESTS ON THE MOUNTAIN?

To the Editor:

I recently came across a handout for a meeting for new Sunday River employees, a handout which has caused me to question how genuine the resort's concern is for the welfare of other businesses in the area.

I've read many articles about how Sunday River wants to be a part of the Bethel community, a community in which I hope to be able eventually to start my own business. But from that perspective, I find Sunday River's handout, "Cross Selling & Internal Marketing," to be extremely troubling.

It is common sense for an employee to market its own company's services -- but not to the point of denying the quality of another. For example, if I think the food at L'Auberge is a higher quality, Jack Frost has faster service, or if I prefer the beer at Sunday River Brewing Company, then why should I be dishonest to a paying customer just to keep them on mountain?

It appears from the handout that as a Sunday River employee, I should keep the customer from leaving the resort at all costs. One line from the handout reads, "We do them a great disservice when we force them to go off-mountain because we do not offer them a particular service." (emphasis in original)

Wouldn't it seem that a guest could have a more fulfilling vacation by being encouraged to enjoy both the on- and off-mountain amenities of the Bethel area?

Roger Wharton

SUNDAY RIVER RESPONDS

You're right! Sunday River was too aggressive in the wording of the "Cross Selling & Internal Marketing" staff handout. But make no mistake: We have had a long-standing partnership with Bethel area businesses and that will continue.

The intent of the handout was to better inform our staff of the quality and variety of services available here on the mountain. Sunday River prides itself in offering outstanding services -- and competitive pricing -- both on and off the slopes. To remain profitable as a company, we have a responsibility to actively promote each and every service.

Our goal, as always, is to drive more business to the area. We've been successful 16 consecutive seasons, allowing us to further reinvest in the mountain and create more jobs. The impact is felt throughout the area.

Of course, we also realize the services at Sunday River are not for everyone, and there are certain services we cannot offer. Therefore, we encourage our staff to recommend the many superb businesses in the area.

The same is true with lodging. While we want guests to experience Sunday River properties, there are those who favor country inns, motels, etc. So we also offer an off-mountain lodging service.

Competition is healthy. As Sunday River strives to provide the finest services available, area businesses will follow suit. In turn, we all benefit, especially our guests.

WHO TOOK CPS RAIN GAUGE?

To the Editor:

If anyone knows what happened to the rain gauge once fastened to the post in back of CPS, please get in touch with me at the school. In the almost three years that small weather station has been there, this is only the second time that anyone has needed to do it any harm.

I have replaced it once: I'm naturally reluctant to replace it a second time, because its location makes it so easy for someone to damage or steal it again. The location needs to be in the open, somewhere that kids can reach it to make readings.

Whoever this person is, whether motivated by a mean spirit or sadly burdened with a lack of self control, I hope somewhere in the individual's circle of friends is someone with some sense that what's been done is pretty crummy. If you are such a person, please give me some information to work with. You'll be helping me out and cleaning up your circle of friends.

UNITED WAY FUNDRAISING

To the Editor:

The Bethel area segment of the county United Way fundraising appeal has reached the 36 per cent mark on its "yardstick." Ten new donors have joined in the 1996 effort to raise funds for more than 18 deserving, charitably offered programs in our local communities. The new donors are Bethel Air Service; Bethel Inn employees; Brooks Bros., Inc.; Cameron House; Chapman Inn; Douglass Place; Mahosuc Realty; Maine Line Products; Attorney O'Donnell; Attorney Reich; Red House Mgt. Service; Riverbend Associates; the Bennett Family; the Schwarz Family; Sunday River Inn; and Western Maine Supply.

COLLINS

To the Editor:

As chairman of Susan Collins' campaign in Oxford County, I am writing to urge voters to consider the one candidate for the U.S. Senate who best represents Bill Cohen's tradition of independent judgment and a thoughtful and reasoned approach to issues. Her leadership and experience in promoting small businesses are needed in Washington to benefit Maine, where so much of the economy is based on small business. A member of Phi Beta Kappa and a summa cum laude graduate of St. Lawrence University, she has been closely associated with Sen. Cohen as a staffer for 12 years, plus held several other important administrative posts. If elected, she will be hitting the ground immediately to serve all Maine people.

I have had several extensive conversations with Susan over the past three years and know her to be a bright, energetic and talented person, who should make us all proud as our next U.S. Senator. Maine has a reputation for sending the best to the U.S. Senate. Susan Collins would continue that tradition.

To the Editor:

The undersigned sheriffs are enthusiastically supporting Paul Young, who is running for Congress in Maine's 2nd District. Paul Young understands the importance of a strong and effective law enforcement component in government. All too often, political leaders merely give lip service to the needs of law enforcement and get sidetracked by gimmicks and ineffective means to problem solving. Paul Young expresses strong feelings and has demonstrated the ability to be a leader in the fight for safer schools and streets.

The level of his support by law enforcement has been further demonstrated by his endorsement by the Law Enforcement Association of America. We recognize that endorsement and encourage all the citizens of the 2nd District to consider Paul Young when voting on Nov. 5.

Paul Young is an outstanding leader as well as a role model for our younger generation to look up to. From his youth in Aroostook County, through his extraordinary education and to his service to his county as a Lt. Commander in the Naval Reserve, Paul Young has demonstrated his ability to serve and lead. We are proud to support him and are thankful that people of his caliber still make the sacrifice of public service.

Sheriff William F. Clark, Hancock County; Sheriff John B. Crowley, Washington County; Sheriff Barry Delong, Somerset County; Sheriff John Ford Sr., Waldo County; Sheriff John J. Goggin, Piscataquis County; Sheriff Lloyd C. Herrick, Oxford County; and Sheriff Donald P. Richards, Franklin County.

GRAHAM

To the Editor:

People for Rockie Graham would like to announce that Ms. Graham has been endorsed for the Maine House of Representatives, District 65, by: Maine Council of Senior Citizens, Maine State Employees Association, AFL-CIO, Maine National Organization of Women, National Organization of Social Workers-Maine Chapter, MLGPA, and has the support of Maine Association of Credit Unions.

It is obvious that these groups recognize that Graham cares about and is dedicated to bettering the lives of women, children, the unemployed and the working poor. Graham has worked hard for 30 years to change and improve the lives of the disadvantaged, disaffected, and disenfranchised.

She is a strong supporter of education and job training. Raised working class, she is a graduate of the public school system and the University of Maine. She believes that education and jobs are fundamental to a strong Maine economy.

We hope you share Ms. Graham's concerns, and please be sure to vote on Nov. 5.

TRUMAN

To the Editor:

This letter is written in support of the candidacy of Freda Truman for treasurer of Oxford County.

Freda Truman is a lifelong resident of Norway who has combined family with a successful business career to the outstanding benefit of both. She raised, with the help of her husband, Leon, four children, returning to school only when they were older, to earn an accounting degree. Her business experience includes over 20 years of tax, payroll and accounting procedures. Freda has also been very active in the community as a member of the hospital auxiliary, a member of the Norway-Paris Fish & Game, and the Oxford Hills Sports Boosters Club. She has served as treasurer for several of these organizations and is an example of what is best about our state -- a person who is both productive and one who gives back to the community.

I have no doubt Freda Truman will continue to give exemplary service to the people of Oxford County as our treasurer. I urge all citizens to vote for Freda Truman on Nov. 5.

NOVA VOTE -- YES

To the Editor:

Recently I was reading a column like yours, in the Rumford Falls Times, like I usually do, trying to understand other people's point of view. I believe in this column, because it does protect my constitutional right of freedom of speech.

I was, however, disturbed with an article titled, "No for NOVA" by Robert H. Worthley, Roxbury. I find the first paragraph uniquely written. Fact: In the past few months taxpayers have been inundated with pros and cons on the NOVA addition and taxes. Fact: Most of the discussion does center around children and their education and future. These two statements are absolutely true. It is important that this addition be built for the future of our children in this area. In order for them to succeed in the next century, we must work together in a positive direction. It is true all of our taxes will go up because of this venture, just how much depends on where you live. We can pay taxes now, and service our children by giving them an excellent education, a positive community in which to grow and an opportunity to explore employment. Or we can pay later, through taxes for funding more prisons, more crowding of the court systems, social services, AFDC, unemployment and an unskilled work force. I personally prefer, like my parents and grandparents before me, to pay now. Taxes are always a problem, no one wants to pay more. But as a taxpayer, I don't mind paying when it benefits a community and its residents. This project will do that and more. The addition is cost effective for the region but most importantly our local economy. An educated and skilled work force will encourage businesses to locate in our region, which is badly needed, not only for a better tax base, but jobs. This opinion is mine, but is based on five years of research and studies done for our area and needs. I believe in NOVA and this project. I would gladly talk with anyone and answer questions about NOVA. I have proudly served as a board member for over ten years and watched students achieve their goals by being gainfully employed and paying taxes. Isn't that what we want, everyone carrying their own load. Let's give it a chance. Vote yes for the NOVA addition.

In that same paragraph, Mr. Worthley claims he "finds it reprehensible to have a NOVA board member get up to tell how both she and her husband work and don't have time to care for their child. NOVA does it for them and that is such a wonderful thing." False: As the board member she speaks of here, I find his comment similar to all of his others, misleading. It is true that I am a board member and mother of a child who attends NOVA's Prevocational program. It is also true that I know NOVA is wonderful. However, it is false that I allow someone else to take care of my child. For those people who know me and know what I stand for, they realize my children come first in my life. I would never allow my children to be placed in an educational environment that wasn't productive to society in general.

I am asking, and praying, that the citizens in the NOVA Region 9 to vote YES on the addition. Allow our area to become productive again and give our children a community they can be proud of and call home. Children first.

NOVA VOTE -- NO

To the Editor:

On Nov. 5, the citizens of 17 towns will be asked to vote on a building for Region IX (NOVA). This building will cost about six million dollars to build. It will cost SAD43 $366,908, SAD21 $44,198, SAD44 $47,089 and Peru $40,414 more per year than we are now paying, just to run, maintain and pay for the construction of this building.

This is being done so that about 115 students will be housed in one building. Now the NOVA administration will tell you that this building is for more than this number of students. They will be adding in the Adult Education programs which is another story, as these programs are funded, not by the school budgets, but by themselves as another article in the school warrants, so that these can be voted out at any time. Right now the Adult Education programs are being held in different schools in the areas of the towns that take part in Adult Education programs, i.e. SAD 21, SAD43 and SAD44.

From my standpoint, I believe that these local schools should have these programs in them, as this gives us, as taxpayers, the opportunity to use these schools since we are paying to have them maintained in our regular school budgets. The only school systems that are really responsible for the construction of this building are SAD43 and Peru. The other school systems are paying for the instruction part only. It is important that you, as taxpayers, vote no on this construction as the cost is prohibitive.

We are now paying from $9,000 to $10,000 per student for the NOVA program, compared to about $5,300 per student in the regular classroom. The NOVA program does not need this building in order to continue providing a good education for these students. Again, I urge you to say no on this article on the November ballot.

$1,000 deductible on CPS floor

BETHEL--The cost of repairing or replacing the gymnasium floor in the Crescent Park School will be covered by insurance, but only after the school district pays a $1,000 deductible. Just how much the work will cost is expected to be determined this week, following an inspection by the company that installed the floor. The floor was flooded Saturday, Oct. 19 when a youngster, playing unsupervised in the gym, kicked a playground ball, which struck and broke a sprinkler head. The gymnasium is still being used, according to school principal David Murphy, but activities are concentrated away from the damaged area.

Snow-glow will light our way?

BETHEL--The Maine Department of Transportation will wait until the Bethel Station project is more complete before deciding whether to install street lights on the Parkway. The Planning Board had requested lights at the routes 2 and 26 intersections for safety reasons. In a letter to the board, MDOT division engineer David Ames said a traffic engineer had inspected the site and found features that will change as the project nears completion. "The intersection will become more defined as the pavement lightens and grass begins to grow on the slopes. It will also help when a complete set of signs and pavement markings are put in place. During the winter, the snow cover will provide a good source of natural lighting," Ames wrote. MDOT will revisit the issue in the spring.

THS accreditation volunteers needed

BETHEL--Parents of school children, and other interested community residents, are invited to assist in a study of Telstar High School as part of the school's accreditation process. The accreditation, which takes place every 10 years, is conducted by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. Volunteers are needed to serve on a number of evaluation committees. Anyone interested may contact Pauline Applin or principal Ted Davis at 824-2136.

Supt. contract extended

WOODSTOCK--SAD44 directors unanimously approved extending interim Supt. Dr. Kent Webster's contract through next June. His salary for the period of Oct. 28 through June 30, 1997 will be $43,520, with a benefit contribution of $4,100. He was originally hired for the three-month span of Oct. 1 through Dec. 31.

Student termination request denied

WOODSTOCK--The SAD44 School Board voted to deny a 16-year-old Telstar High School student's request to terminate her enrollment at the school. Students under 17 who wish to drop out of school are required to get permission from the board. Directors have for years routinely voted for such terminations, on the recommendation of school administrators. Principal Ted Davis said that by the time the request for termination comes to the board, every avenue has been pursued to keep the student in school, and "the student would not come to school even if the request was denied." Many of the students who drop out, Davis said, return to take courses through Adult Education and eventually receive a diploma. But some directors have become increasingly reluctant to sign off on the students without more information on their reasons for dropping out. Several said they would like to have the students and their parents come before the board to make a case for withdrawing from school. Dr. Kent Webster, interim superintendent, said Tuesday that the board will now try to establish a formal policy that will "make sure we do all we can for the students."

Clothesline Project targets violence

BETHEL--The Maine Clothesline Project came to Bethel last week in observance of National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. T-shirts were decorated to represent a particular woman or child's domestic violence experience. Many of the shirts represented people in Oxford County, according to Loung Ung, an advocate for the Abused Women's Advocacy Project. "They symbolize airing out your laundry -- allowing it to become clean and heal the victim -- rather than having it sit in a dark corner," she said. Bringing the violence out in the open also focuses attention on domestic violence as a community problem, rather than just a family one, Ung said. AWAP can be reached at 1-800-559-2927.

Crime Watch meeting scheduled

BETHEL--The second meeting of the Neighborhood Crime Watch Program is scheduled for Nov. 13 at 6 p.m. at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. It will be conducted by Bethel Police Chief Dale Bellman and Capt. Jim Miclon of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department. There will also be a guest speaker, to be announced.

Gould plans new dining hall

BETHEL--Gould Academy announced tentative plans last week to construct a 350-seat dining hall on Church Street. John Todd, Gould's chief development officer and director of capital gifts, said the Gehring Hall, used since 1929, is too small for the school's campus population. A new one would be located behind Gehring. The plan must be approved by the school's Board of Trustees. Todd expects the site plan to be presented to the Planning Board in November, and if approved, construction will likely start in April. Gould also received approval from the board last week to construct a 20-meter and 10-meter ski jump on the Sunday River Road.

Andover gets boil order

ANDOVER--The Andover Water District issued a boil water order last Thursday, because of an unstable turbidity level and the possibility of unsafe water. The water must be boiled for at least five minutes before drinking, making ice cubes, washing foods, brushing teeth, or any other activity where water is consumed. Brian Tarbuck, a field engineer with the state's Drinking Water Program, said the turbidity levels appeared to meet federal requirements, but the amount of chlorine was very low. The order was expected to continue for at least part of this week. The Water District draws its water from Stony Brook, then disinfects it. The district has been under an order from the federal Environmental Protection Agency to install a filter or replace the water source.

House fire a mystery

WATERFORD--A house on the Green Road burned to the ground last week, and no one realized it until the next day. The dwelling caught fire sometime late Tuesday or early Wednesday, and had burned by the time owner Denise Pettengill came home at 8 a.m. Wednesday. A dense fog that evening may have hidden any sign that the home was burning. The state Fire Marshal's Office is investigating, but investigator Pete Simard said the cause may never be known. He said he doesn't believe the origin was suspicious, however. The house was insured.

Program links athletics, academics

ORONO--Four Maine high schools are pilot sites for a new program designed to strengthen the relationship between athletics and academics. The focus of the project is professional development of coaches to ensure that the lessons and experiences of athletics support the local school philosophy and state expectations for students. Funded by the UNUM Foundation and sponsored by the Maine Center for Coaching Education and the University of Maine College of Education, the project is being piloted at Woodland, Orono, Edward Little and Noble high schools. Approximately 79,000 children participate in sports under the direction of an estimated 8,800 coaches. The growth of sports programs, combined with a high turnover rate (25 percent in 1994-95) has led to a severe shortage of qualified coaches and increased potential for school liability and other concerns, according to coordinator Keith Lancaster.

From the Bethel Police log:

Juveniles warned against buying alcohol

On Oct. 23 at 6:15 p.m. a clerk at the Big Apple on Route 2 reported that two juveniles or minors tried to purchase alcohol at the store, but did not show proof of age nor did they appear to be of legal age. Police located their vehicle at the Pleasant River Motel, and spoke with the juveniles. The officer advised the male juveniles that it was a violation of law to attempt to buy alcohol if they are not 21. The subjects admitted to their error, and were warned another attempt would result in a summons or arrest.

Thursday, Oct. 24

At 8:23 a.m. police received a report that a vehicle had been driven on the soccer field at Telstar High School. Police checked the scene and found the vehicle had done "donuts" all over the field. The vehicle had gained access by way of a gate off the upper end of the student parking lot, which had been left open the previous night.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

All chamber members are reminded of the upcoming Annual General Membership Meeting and Social on Monday, Nov. 4 at the Sudbury Inn on Main Street. The social will begin at 5:30 p.m., and the business meeting will start promptly at 6:15. We will elect new directors for 1997, recognize outgoing directors, review 1996 committee accomplishments and have an open discussion on the 1997 program. You are all encouraged to attend and let your voice be heard.

Many thanks to Matt Havdra and Phil Cox, co-owners of the Loft Restaurant, for hosting our Oct. 28 Business After Hours. In addition, a hearty thanks to the Education Committee of the chamber and the Western Mountains Alliance for co-sponsoring an informative forum on the Forest Practices Referendum on Monday evening at Telstar. Thanks also to moderator Bill Cousins and speakers Jonathan Carter, Bill Vail and Al Barth.

The chamber will attend the Boston Ski Show from Nov. 14 to 17. Board member Bill Riley will coordinate the volunteer effort there. Please get in touch with the office if you would like to participate in any way at the show.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY

Halloween can mean danger for little ghosts and goblins unless drivers take special precautions, according to AAA Northern New England.

AAA Public Relations and Traffic Safety manager Matt McKenzie reminds drivers, "Halloween brings out costumed boys and girls who are often too excited to look both ways before crossing the street. Dark costumes make trick-or-treaters difficult to see. Worse yet, ill-fitting masks obstruct vision so children can't always see oncoming cars."

McKenzie offers advice that can help make Halloween safer:

Drivers: Be extra alert for children darting out from between parked cars. Turn on headlights at the first sign of dusk and take extra care when negotiating driveways. With so many children on the streets, a right turn on red can be dangerous, so slow down and watch out. Driving at least five miles per hour under the posted speed limit in residential areas gives drivers and children a margin of safety.

Boys and Girls: AAA urges you to trick-or-treat while it's still light and wear comfortable, light-colored costumes that make it easy to walk, see and be seen. Carry a flashlight. Trim your costume with special reflective tape that shines brightly in headlights (your parents can get it at most auto supply, hardware and sporting goods stores). Carry or wear a glow-in-the-dark Halloween light stick, available where costumes are sold. Trick-or-treat on well lit streets. Never dart out between parked cars. Walk on the sidewalk, not in the street. If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic as far out of the road as possible.

Parents: Be sure children can see clearly. McKenzie advises parents to enlarge eye holes on masks and have children remove masks before crossing the street. Better yet, encourage them to wear makeup instead of a mask. Makeup won't impair vision, and it's fun to wear.

Accompany children or send an older brother or sister along. If someone older can't go, kids should trick-or-treat with a group and tell you in advance what streets they plan to haunt.

"With just a few simple precautions," McKenzie said, "they'll have a devilishly good and safe Halloween."

NOVA addition faces uphill battle

By ALISON ALOISIO

In a David-against-Goliath scenario, the small towns of SAD44 helped outvote Rumford and Mexico to pass NOVA's budget this summer.

Dewaine Craig, director of the vocational education region, hopes history will repeat itself on Nov. 5 -- and give his nomadic program a permanent roof over its head.

A proposed $5.9-million addition to Rumford's Mountain Valley High School is on the ballot in the 19 member communities of the vocational region. SAD44 and its tuition towns are among those communities.

Currently, Telstar High School sends 18 full-time and five part-time students to NOVA programs.

If the project is approved, the region's seven programs would be housed in the addition, and several new programs would be added.

The existing programs -- including business/medical office technology, allied health/CNA, building trades, forestry/wood harvesting, metal trades, commercial truck driving, and pre-vocational -- are now scattered among leased, borrowed and donated sites, mostly in the Rumford area.

New programs would be child care and development, hospitality, culinary arts and automotive/heavy equipment mechanics.

Who pays

There is vocal opposition to the proposal in Rumford and Mexico (SAD43), which stand to pay the lion's share of the cost.

SAD44 towns, on the other hand, would pay nothing toward the bond itself, because they are already paying the state funding formula's maximum-allowed amount for school-construction debt.

The towns would be responsible, however, for increased operating costs associated with the addition, for an estimated total of $47,809 the first year of the project.

Only two citizens attended a hearing at Telstar High School last week regarding the project. But Craig took the opportunity to plead his case.

"I'm not sure how long we can stay in the current buildings," he said. "We're at the mercy of a number of landlords. All our leases are up in June."

Craig said the NOVA sites are spread over an eight-mile area, making his operation less efficient than it could be. Several of the buildings are old and have handicapped-accessible and air-exchange problems, he said.

If the building project is defeated, he said, other rental space may have to be located.

Robert Worthley of Roxbury, leader of a citizen tax group opposing the addition, has proposed that NOVA be offered as a summer program at MVHS -- eliminating the need for an addition.

But Craig said the summer isn't long enough for students to complete NOVA programs. They currently spend all of the school day in vocational program classes.

Norm Clanton of Bethel, a NOVA board member, also attended the hearing. He supports the addition and the NOVA services. Some students who would otherwise drop out, he said, stay in school to attend NOVA programs.

SAD44 stuck in NOVA?

By law, SAD44 must provide vocational education. And short of getting out of NOVA altogether, the vocational region is probably as good a deal as SAD44 can expect, according to Telstar High School principal Ted Davis.

Davis believes the money currently paid to NOVA ($176,873 this year) could be used to offer more programs at Telstar, if SAD44 withdrew.

But in political reality, going it alone is probably not an option, he said. The whole region would have to vote to approve any NOVA reorganization -- an unlikely scenario, Davis said, since it would probably mean a higher price tag for the remaining members.

So should the Telstar area accept those circumstances -- and vote to give MVHS an addition its community may not want?

Asked his opinion on the issue, Davis said, "I support vocational education. I had a problem with adding to the Mountain Valley facility, but the reality is, if we're going to get anything passed, it's probably the only way it's going to happen."

A separate facility located elsewhere would probably be more expensive, he said.

Regarding the program's importance in motivating some students to stay in school, Davis said, "We've had a few students that NOVA has been the answer for them. It would have been more difficult for them to remain here (in school) otherwise. It's been an outlet for them."

Davis said there would probably be some increased interest among Telstar students in NOVA if more programs were offered as a result of addition.

Craig said it would take solid support from SAD44 and other member communities to outvote SAD43, if that district comes out against the project.

"There are approximately 5,600 voters in Rumford, 2,000 in Bethel, and 1,200 each in Woodstock and Peru," he said.

Clanton urged Bethel-area residents to vote yes. "I hope the 'silent majority' will support it," he said.

Costs per town

For the first year of the project, SAD44 towns would pay estimated operating costs as follows: Andover, $4,704; Bethel, $15,715; Greenwood, $6,119; Newry, $14,618; Woodstock, $5,934. Craig estimates the costs would translate to a $5.54 tax increase on a $50,000 home in each of the towns.

Gilead and Upton (SAD44 tuition towns) would pay toward both the bond and operating costs -- Gilead, $4,235/$2,522, and Upton, $692/$287, respectively.

To the Editor:

On Nov. 5 the citizens of Mountain Valley High School for the first time since the first time some have suggested unrealistic, it is unschool experience tougher than they had to finding and keeping the same graduation job-specific skills work will require a lot of work.

It has been stated while others would while those who have monies. And those. Yes, if we pass this long run than do.

For more than two opportunities in fragmented diversified programs option, because some. The proposed NOVA solution to the dilemma.

NOVA VOTE -- YES

To the Editor:

On Nov. 5 the citizens of Applied Technology Region 9 (NOVA) will vote on the proposed addition to Mountain Valley High School, which would consolidate the region's vocational programs in a single facility for the first time since its inception. Some folks have said it's too expensive; others that it's not needed. Some have suggested we cut back vocational programs and "keep kids in school." This proposal is not only unrealistic, it is unsupported by the evidence. Often, students who are considering dropping completely out of school experience their first real scholastic success at NOVA, even though they find the programs far tougher than they had imagined. Vocational programs exist to help students acquire skills specifically related to finding and keeping employment. They are not a substitute for high school. NOVA students have to meet the same graduation requirements as other students. High school dropouts and high school graduates without job-specific skills will find few opportunities in the world of work in the next century. And those who can't work will require a wide range of taxpayer-funded services for a long time.

It has been stated that some communities would pay all the construction costs of the proposed addition, while others would pay nothing. That's incorrect. Some communities will pay their full share of construction, while those who have recently built other school facilities will have all or part of their shares paid by state monies. And those costs decrease after two years when the state reimburses a substantial portion of them. Yes, if we pass this proposal, it will cost us some money, but I think it's affordable and far less expensive in the long run than doing nothing now. Education is not an expense, it is an investment.

For more than two decades, NOVA has struggled to provide meaningful and relevant educational opportunities in fragmented, often substandard facilities. To do the job better and more efficiently, to offer more diversified programs, and to serve more students, a consolidated facility is essential. The status quo is not an option, because some facilities now in use will soon become unavailable, necessitating yet another move. The proposed NOVA building project has received some criticism, but it is by far the most cost-effective solution to the dilemma now facing us. I urge you to vote yes on the proposal.

To the Editor:

Numerous letters appearing in Maine newspapers of late seem to associate private property rights with the idea of voting for the 2C measure concerning this November's forestry proposals. If the individuals writing such letters think that "right of entry" of officials onto private lands is something new, it should be pointed out that the right to do so has existed for nearly a hundred years -- ever since the Maine Forest Service was created. Forest Service officials and Maine Warden Service were allowed to enter private properties to protect against timber trespass and theft, forest fires, insect infestations and diseases, and illegal hunting and fishing for all of that time.

The Compact For Maine's Forests, choice 2B on the ballot, in no way changes the existing laws that are already in place. In fact, it actually strengthens the rights of landowners, especially small landowners, by allowing them access to expanded education programs. It increases their participation in local harvesting regulation and offers better protection against timber thievery and the like to absentee owners. Above all, it allows exemptions in order to promote sustainable and profitable management for them. These exemptions are not available to the state's large landowners.

The Green Party's referendum, question 2A, has already caused losses to Maine's economy. The 2C choice can only prolong the debate over the forest question. The only real solution that will benefit all concerned is a resounding "yes" vote for 2B, the Compact for Maine's Forests.

To the Editor:

As the time nears to vote on Nov. 5, people are still confused about the forestry referendum. Supporters of the Compact for Maine's Forests (2B) and none of the above (2C) have a common goal and that is to soundly defeat the Green Party Forestry Ban (2A). What they do not agree on is the best method to achieve their goal.

People believe that changes are needed in the forest industry or we wouldn't have this referendum before us. We know that 2A is not a wise choice because it threatens our forests' health, the state's economy and our jobs. We have witnessed the economic uncertainty this referendum has caused. 2C would not be a wise vote, because things will remain as they are. Changes are needed. When you look at the 2B option and see that it protects our forest industry, supports a healthy economy and reduces the size and amount of clearcuts, it is an easy decision. In the Compact, clearcutting is allowed only when justified, the amount of wood left in a selective cut is increased and is supported by a diverse group of people and organizations.

The nation is watching us. Let's do right the first time. Vote for 2B, the Compact for Maine's Forests, and we all win.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS

The Oxford County Republican Committee met at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond on Oct. 8 with a supper served by the Grange. Speaker for the evening was Daryn Dementit, the recently appointed political director for the Oxford County Republican Committee's 1996 campaign effort. Dementit described his efforts in organizing the Republican effort in Oxford County. He urged those who wanted to help with the campaign to volunteer by calling the Oxford County Republican Headquarters in Oxford on Route 26 at 539-9600.

During the business portion of the meeting, Chairman Stan Howe thanked State Committeewoman Becky Kendall for all her work in coordinating people to serve in the Republican booth at the Fryburg Fair.

Howe read the names of all the volunteers who helped at the booth. County Vice Chairwoman Barbara Robinson introduced John Carlisle of the Dole campaign who described the efforts in Maine to elect Bob Dole as the next President of the United States. Dan Dementit from Susan Collins' U.S. Senate campaign spoke on that campaign and cited the most recent polls showing Collins ahead by six points.

State Committeeman Carl Hansen of the Paul Young campaign described the endorsements Young has received from several groups, including the National Federation of Independent Businesses, the Law Enforcement Alliance of America and the National Rifle Association. A number of incumbents and candidates were introduced and provided details of their campaigns for the committee: State Sen. Norman K. Ferguson (R-Hanover); Rep. Tom Winsor (R-Norway); Rep. Rob Cameron (R-Rumford); Oxford County Register of Probate Ted Tracy; Eleanor Tracy, House candidate in District 69; Dick Worthley, House candidate in District 67; and Freda Truman, candidate for Oxford County Treasurer. The next meeting was announced as a Victory Dinner at North Waterford on Nov. 12.

To the Editor:

Critics of the Forestry Compact have claimed that it will do nothing to control clearcutting and over-harvesting of Maine's forests. Let's take a closer look and see if this is so.

The compact has redefined what constitutes a clearcut, increasing by 50 percent (45 sq. ft.) the basal area that must be left behind to not be considered a clearcut. Only acceptable growing stock will be included in calculating basal area remaining. This means that a significant increase in harvested areas will be subject to the Compact's increased regulations.

The Compact decreases the maximum size of areas allowed to be clearcut from the present 250 acres to 75 acres. That represents a 70-percent reduction in allowable size.

For landowners of over 100,000 acres, no more than one percent can be clearcut in any given year, and that amount only under qualified circumstances. There is no established limit under current law.

Landowners of over 100,000 acres will be allowed to clearcut only if a licensed forester can certify that the practice is scientifically justified. That means that the permit to clearcut must address certain specified situations. Examples: to improve wildlife habitat, to salvage high-risk stands that are diseased or at risk to be lost to wind throw, or to increase productivity in stands of poor quality.

The Compact lays the groundwork for eliminating the practice of "liquidation harvesting." It requires that a policy be developed by the Forest Service and given to the Governor for presentation to the Legislature no later than April 1997.

The Compact is to be applied equally statewide, not to just the unorganized townships. Therefore, it does not discriminate against that segment of Maine's population as the Maine Greens' Referendum does.

The Compact significantly increases the size of buffer zones required to be left around clearcut areas. This especially impacts landowners of 100,000 acres or more, and it is they who own the majority of Maine's forest lands.

The Compact is supported by well respected environmental groups such as the Natural Resource Council of Maine, and Maine Audubon. They were, in fact, instrumental in creating the Compact. It is the blending of environmentalist, industry, and the Legislature that makes this Compact the right choice for Maine voters. Environmental concerns have been addressed and individual rights and freedoms have been preserved. The Compact works because it recognizes that not only are the forests our State's great asset, but Maine's people are great assets also. It provides a solution that will protect both the forest and Maine's citizens. Vote the only real choice on the forestry question on election day. Vote yes on 2B, the Compact for Maine's Forests.

BUT ABOVE ALL -- VOTE!

To the Editor:

In a few days, the citizens of this country will come to an important day of the greatest democracy in the world, election day. The day as individual citizens we will be voting for those who will guide this great "Ship of State" through the turbulent waters of the next four years.

The greatest enemies of any democracy are indifference, apathy and lethargy. Past history indicates that there have been national elections when barely little over a third of eligible voters actually voted. This, to me, is a travesty of the greatest kind. It will eventually undermine and destroy the democratic form of government that we have cherished now for over 200 years. This nonsense of "my vote won't count" is utterly ridiculous and stupid, just a cop-out as far as I am concerned. History is replete with records of many occasions when one vote decided a very important matter. For example, it is said that Adolph Hitler came into power by just one vote! Just think, two votes would perhaps prevented an international catastrophe. Who said, "my vote won't count?"

Always remember that in a democracy, the ultimate power rests with the people themselves, not those who are elected. The first three words of the Declaration of Independence reads, "We the people..." it's "government of the people, by the people, and for the people," remember?

Therefore, I strongly urge every thinking American who is a registered voter and a tax-paying citizen to go to the polls and vote in this coming election. If you are not registered, you can still go and register and vote at the same time. In the meantime, make it your business to get all the information you can about the candidates and issues you will be voting for. Such information may be found by writing or calling the candidates themselves, and on the issues you can get help by writing to Augusta the State House. You may also find this information at your public library. Always vote with your head, never your heart.

Don't fail in this great responsibility. You hold the future of this state and nation in your hands. Remember freedom is a priceless commodity, and, I might add, a very fragile one. Millions have died to make it possible. Untold millions in this old world would give anything to vote but they can't. You can and should! Again, remember, things taken for granted have a way of disappearing very suddenly. So, once again, be sure to vote on Nov. 5.

Re-elect NORM FERGUSON State Senator

Jobs...

- We must work to keep the jobs we have. We must continue to work to create new jobs. If every business provided just one new job, we could put over 33,000 people back to work.

Taxes...

- Eliminated Hospital tax and match, saving over $110 mil
- Eliminated tax on Nursing Home Paying Patients, saving several million.
- We need new priorities, not new taxes.
- We need more tax-payers, not more taxes.

Education...

- Changed school funding formula to be fairer to property tax-payers.
- Our teachers deserve support and in return, our children deserve a good education.

Environment...

- A clean healthy environment is vital to all of us in our daily lives. We must also assure that business and industry can carry on and provide jobs without sacrificing environmental quality. It can be done.

By NATALIE TIMBERLAKE

By the time you read this, you will be recovering from setting clocks back and thinking about Oct. 31. After All Hallows Eve, November starts with All Saints Day, so let's start this month's Quiz in the same way.

1. Musical societies are sometimes named for this Saint. Which?
2. This Saint was the first of the Apostolic Fathers. Which?
3. And this Saint was an apostle. Which?
4. This Saint was an Italian Ascetic. Which?
5. What were the Six Nations who participated in the Treaty of Amity?
6. For a long while they were Five Nations. Which was the sixth nation to join the confederation?
7. During October and November, Venus has been in its "morning star" status. This means Venus is in which conjunction: inferior or superior?
8. The astronomical for the "Dog" star is what?
9. "Advent" signals the "coming toward" of what?

Now my answers to the October Quiz:

1. All of the October four circuit court sites have it in common that they are seaport towns.
 2. The person who died on Oct. 8, 1793, Gov. Hancock, is better known by his "John Hancock."
 3. Gov. Hancock gained his fame as the first and very robust signer of the Declaration of Independence, so that today, when a person's signature is needed on a document, one may say, "Put your John Hancock on this."
 4. On Oct. 17 (not 27, a typo) Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga, N.Y.
 5. Burgoyne's command was of the British troops sent to Canada. Second part of question: Not really "with" him because they were in the Revolutionary army, but, according to Lapham's "History of Bethel, Maine," page 84, Zela Holt was at the surrender, as was Jonathan Conn, and Moses Mason is noted to have been at the battle of Bennington, which was an earlier encounter in the same campaign.
 6. Cornwallis' army was "taken" at Yorktown (Virginia).
 7. Cornwallis' command was of the British army.
 8. Not worrying about the month of birth, Hancock, born in 1737, was 39 at the signing of the Declaration of Independence, and 56 when he died in 1793. But he was thoughtful, and was born on January 23.
 9. The two holidays mentioned in the Almanack, and on my "big" calendar for 1996, are Columbus Day and the surrender of Cornwallis.
- We will return in a month for the final quiz.

HUMANS CAN BE NICE, AFTER ALL—This unnamed cocker spaniel puppy, saved from poor treatment at a pet store, was among several dogs who visited the Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris recently. The event was organized by the Bethel Rotary Club, which plans monthly visits with the pets. The puppy -- who is looking for a good home -- is shown here with Nestor Tamminen. (Photo, A. Aloisio) people generally wouldn't abandon a puppy, because someone would likely know whose it was.

"If you have a dog, your neighbors are going to know it. You're not going to drop it off," she said.

Most such incidents occur in the winter, she said.

If owners of abandoned or stray dogs can't readily be found, Conkright takes them to the Allen Hill Animal Shelter in Oxford, where they are kept for eight days before being put to sleep. Bethel is charged a fee for each animal.

"I'd like to find a facility that houses them longer. If someone is contacted about their animal and they don't check right away, it may have been put to sleep by the time they do. I've also had dogs with collars -- family dogs -- that people just don't claim," she said.

An effort is underway to build another, "no-kill" shelter in the Norway-Paris area. An organization known as Responsible Pet Care is raising money for the project. Progress has been slowed, however, by town permitting requirements.

Farren has helped with both fundraising and placement for Responsible Pet Care.

Sue Parsons of Otisfield, a founding member of the organization, currently has about 35 cats in her home and a number of dogs in runs behind her house.

"I've helped her place some dogs in this area," said Farren. "If Norway-Paris can get something going, people in Bethel could support it, with donations of food, litter and money."

Dealing with cats is particularly difficult in Bethel, due to the large numbers, according to Conkright.

"It costs $15 to have a cat put to sleep," she said. Unlike dogs, the town does not take abandoned or stray cats to a shelter.

Bethel Town Manager Madeleine Henley said cat complaints, and owners, are difficult to track down because the animals aren't licensed.

"We try to discourage people from calling about cats," she said. "If a cat is injured on the side of the road, we'll dispose of it."

"I'm sorry if that sounds really cold. But we won't take care of them at taxpayer's expense -- we'll have them put down. And I'm not willing to have a (healthy) cat killed, just because it's wandering around."

Henley said the law states towns must deal with "injured or damaged cats," and Bethel meets that requirement.

Marsha McKenna is the animal control officer in Greenwood and Woodstock. She said abandoned animals are not a major problem there as a rule, but camp owners abandoning cats this time of year is a chronic problem.

She takes animals to her own shelter, located in Rumford.

West Paris, where McKenna is also the control officer, has seen an increase in abandoned dogs since this summer. "We've had people who have moved and left dogs on the street. Beautiful, purebred animals," she said.

Anyone involved in animal welfare hopes homeless animals can be placed. But Farren warns that people considering adoption should think carefully before making that move, or history may repeat itself for the animal.

"People who get a puppy don't always think about it becoming an adult dog," she said. "Then, when it runs into a lot of money, they feel it's someone else's responsibility."

Anyone interested in helping the Responsible Pet Care effort may call Sue Parsons at 743-8013, or send monetary donations to Sally Brown, treasurer, RFD 1, Box 12, Norway, ME 04268.

Channel
your advertising through newspaper and your message comes through load and clear.

Newspaper readers perform twice as well as TV viewers on current events.

In a study of 3,000 high school students, those who watched TV newscasts but had not had them as part of their school work did no better on current events tests than pupils who had not seen the newscasts. When teachers incorporated the news programs into the curriculum, students had a better knowledge of current events. However, students who read newspapers did best of all on the tests.

As an advertiser, this means that your newspaper ad will be seen and understood better than your ad on television.

If you want effective, cost efficient advertising, it's time to switch channels to newspaper.

With network and numerous cable choices, not to mention VCRs and Pay-Per-View, television audiences are spread pretty thin. And then, if they're not there when your ad is aired, your message goes unheard and unnoticed.

The newspaper is a handy take-along package that offers you plenty of space to explain your product or service. Plus, you can't clip a coupon from a TV commercial.

Don't despair! The advertising cupboard won't be bare if you channel your advertising through newspaper.

Lee and Terry Blake and daughter of Augusta were Sunday visitors of Betty Blake.

Cecil and Marion Abbott of Andover joined Ernest and Alberta Angevine of Northwest Bethel for a foliage ride to the coast and an enjoyable dinner at the Taste of Maine Restaurant.

Mary and Arnold McLean and grandson Jacob Stewart of Lewiston spent last weekend with Randal and Sarah Stevens.

A nice little rain we had last week. I'm glad we weren't in southern Maine.

On Oct. 19, Polly Smith went with Donna Bernard of Andover to South Paris to watch her great-granddaughter, Meagen Manson, in a riding competition at her riding school. Meagen came in second.

Lisa Haines was home from U.M.F. on Oct. 19 and 20.

Lucy Nordahl returned on Oct. 22 from Rhode Island and Massachusetts. She had a terrible time getting home from Scarborough as the turnpike was closed and a lot of back roads were either flooded or washed out. She had been visiting her mother and daughter and family.

Rudi and Barbara Honkala took the train from North Conway and returned on Oct. 17. It was a five-hour trip and a very beautiful one.

Alder River Grange had a successful supper on Oct. 12. Our last supper will be on Nov. 9.

The huge arachnid is out at the Berniers again.

Greenwood City

by Collista Morgan

All this week the news has centered around the heavy rains and floods. We were fortunate to be spared much of the destruction, compared to many other towns and cities.

The pond became very high and at one time I discovered an object floating across the water. I watched it come nearer and nearer. It was a large, green barrel with a dent in its side. It moved rapidly, racing over the waves. I have never seen it since and don't know what became of it.

All brooks became rivers, which reminded me of a few sentences written by a pupil I had many years ago, which he gave the title, "The Brook." "It was my luck that I found it, a small brook gurgling along its obstinate way, stopped by nothing. In places it was almost hidden by a cargo of golden, red and brown leaves. This brook lost in September was enjoying its last freedom before being frozen in December."

On Wednesday, I enjoyed a few hours with my cousin, Lettie Brooks. We went out to lunch and did some shopping. On our way home we stopped to visit a little while with Doris Slattery at her home.

The Holts had to go to Boston on Wednesday to keep appointments with their eye doctor. Ann, David, Fay and Mary went. They had a long day because of road conditions on the turnpike when they had to wait.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Mills

This past week's winner of the Greenstock Fundraiser was Jason Moody, a repeat winner from the first week. He is the grandson of Florence and Bernie Gatchell.

My son, Ralph Mills, has not had a very good couple of weeks. He and two friends of his make an annual fall hike and camping trip in the mountains. He came back from that to find his cat sick. He tried to get him out from under the table to get him to the vet, but the cat promptly bit his finger and died, which might have come with a warning in a comedian's routine, but is anything but funny when it happens in real life. It took him quite a while to pry his finger loose from the cat's mouth. He called the vet, who assured him that where the cat had its shots regularly, it wouldn't have rabies. (I'm glad the vet is so certain. I've never known of any shots that were 100-percent effective.)

Anyhow, my son then made a trip to the doctor, who gave him a tetanus shot and antibiotics. Five days later he was to have a visiting nurse administer intravenous antibiotics night and morning. One week later he's in the hospital having it lanced. They kept him two and one-half days. (It was supposed to be an outpatient visit.)

He then gets discharged only to find he parked in the wrong place and had $105 worth of parking tickets. The last call I had from him, he was thoroughly tired and disgruntled. I hope when I call tonight things will be better!

After the rain of this week our little marsh turned into a pond and then a small lake. We lost our phone but other than that weathered the storm pretty well. In a way it was good that we lost the phone because the indoor wiring was a tangled mess of wires and connectors, as I tried to make one outlet serve two phones and the answering machine. It took some wire and a couple outlets and we now have two much more respectable outlets in two different rooms, eliminating two phone extension cords and a couple connectors. It looks and works better. I should have done it earlier, but Andy is a bit nervous when I appear with a drill, wire and other alarming looking devices. The fact that I lived for many years with a husband and son who knew how to do those things and were patient enough to show me, doesn't do much to set his mind at rest. Men from our generation often still think a woman should not be doing such things. We certainly have a stereotype mind-set sometimes. People sort of raise an eyebrow when they find out Ralph's doctor is a woman and his visiting nurse is a man. "It's a nineties sort of thing, folks."

MANAGEMENT CLUB MEETS

The Western Maine Management Club will meet at the Caswell House Restaurant in Harrison on Monday, Nov. 4.

Social hour is from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. and dinner and the speaker will follow. Tickets are $15 per person with dinner choices of broiled halibut, chicken parmesan or teriyaki steak.

Michael Robinson, from Market Development Center, will speak on connecting Maine business to markets and suppliers.

Responses should be no later than Thursday, Oct. 31, for dinner reservations and selections of entree. Call Robert Cummings of C.B. Cummings & Sons at 743-6326 or FAX 743-9702.

SURPRISE 40TH-A surprise 40th anniversary party was held for John and Nancy Wight on Oct. 13, 1996 at the Newry Grange Hall, given by their children, Michael, Brad and Brenda and family, Terri and family and Loretta and family. Over 150 friends and family - including Jack Greig, who was the best man at the Oct. 6, 1956 wedding - came from Maine, New Hampshire, Florida, New York and Connecticut to celebrate. John and Nancy also received cards from New York, Georgia and Florida.

Mundt-Allen Post #81

American Legion Post 81 and Unit conducted their monthly meeting at the Post home on Oct. 22. This meeting featured a pot-luck dinner and presentations honoring recent graduates of the Boys and Girls State program held in Bangor during June each year. This year those graduates were: Ken Adams, Jason Billings, Fred Emerson and Justin Gilbert.

The boys each described their experiences in participating in mock local and state political activities and serving in various municipal or political posts. Without exception, they praised the Boys State program and urged the Legion to continue to support it. This year's Girls State attendees, Kelli Szente and Jennifer Buck, were unable to attend our dinner and meeting.

Each year, Post 81 funds attendance at Boys and Girls State for four boys and two girls from the SAD44 area. Students are nominated by teachers and others based on their academic and good citizenship participation.

After the Boys State presentations, there was a briefing on the "kids for trees" program by Jim Chandler, Oxford County Soil Conservation District agent. Mr. Chandler described the evolution of this program, beginning with its introduction into the third grade at Crescent Park School some eight years ago. Under this program, Crescent Park School third-graders plant baby fir trees on land adjacent to the P.H. Chadbourne lumber mill on Route 26. The intention was to care for the trees each year until the students' senior year, when they were to be harvested and sold as Christmas trees to raise money for Project Graduation. As it has evolved, the students also learn about ecology, wildlife habitat, soil conservation and also something about the work involved in creating a productive forest.

Mundt-Allen Post 81 also provides financial support to this project. Following Jim Chandler, Norm Clanton spoke briefly in favor of funding the NOVA building addition to Mountain Valley High School.

Today, Saturday, is a sunny day and even though most leaves have fallen off the trees, a customer who, for her first time traveled through Upton, expressed how beautiful she thought the area was. I guess I speak for the town when I say "Thank you."

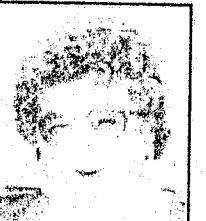

Six moose were bagged from the Bull Moose Campground. There are 44 contestants signed up for the Big Buck Contest as I write this. The last week before opening day always brings the hunters forward. Last day to sign up is Thursday, Oct. 31.

The Umbagog boat launch is being rebuilt. Come check it out.

RANALD STEVENS TURNS 90—On Sunday, Oct. 22, a 90th birthday party for Ranald Stevens was hosted by Dale and Barbara Stevens at their home. Those attending were Sarah Stevens, Al and Alice Stevens, Scott Stevens, Eric and Kate Botka, Robert and Althea Stevens and their children Keith, Jen and Danny. Traveling from Saco were Ruth and George Chase, Dave and Kim Chase, Don and Stephanie Chase and their children Josh, Nathan, April and Kayla. A special surprise birthday guest was Ranald's sister Helen from Zephherhills, Fla. Helen's son, Jim Swan, and friend Lois Sills brought her up for the occasion. A potluck dinner was enjoyed by everyone followed by cake and ice cream.

p.m. at the V.F.W. Hall in South Paris with the Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent hosting the evening. Stoneham is to furnish salads.

Light refreshments were served by Hildred and Charlotte. Hildred is still recuperating from a fall last February but is doing very well. It was good to see you again, Hildred.

Helen Havista has been visiting Walter and Carolyn Heino and has now left for her home in Florida. Her daughter will drive her there.

Grace Nelson is now at the Bridgton Health Care Center in Bridgton, after a fall at her home. Hope you're better soon, Grace, and can be home with your little doggie.

Work is progressing on the new telephone relay station going up here in Stoneham beside Lawrence Daddmun's house. They are grading and getting the ground work ready for the one-story building.

I was pleased to meet one of Bethel Citizen's correspondents last weekend, when we were coming home from camp at Wilson's Mills. (By the way, we only saw one moose on this trip). Amy Geiling of Upton and I agreed that it would be nice if all of us correspondents could meet together some time. We'll have to think about it.

A missionary meeting is planned for 1 p.m. on Nov. 7 at the East Stoneham Church. This concerns the two churches of the Oxford County United Parish (East Stoneham and North Waterford). All church members and town members are invited to attend.

Nov. 7 is the Hunter's Supper at East Stoneham Church from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

The Andover
Elementary School is hosting a "Parade of Horribles" on Thursday, Oct.

31 at 12:45 p.m. Following the parade of Halloween costumes, games and refreshments will be served in the gym. The Story Hour at the public library will also be held that afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

The Snow Valley Sno-Goers will hold their monthly meeting at the fire station on Saturday, Nov. 2 at 7 p.m. All interested please attend. Volunteers are needed for repair work on many trails before snow falls.

Voters in need of absentee ballots should contact the town office at 392-3302. The town office hours are: Tuesday, Thursday and Friday 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Wednesdays from 1 to 6 p.m. A reminder to owners of dogs over six months, pick up a 1997 license for their canine friend. Please bring along a current rabies vaccination certificate and neutering certification.

Parent/Teacher conferences will be at AES on Thursday, Nov. 7 from 6:30 to 9 p.m., and on Friday, Nov. 8 from 8 a.m. to noon. The Scholastic Book Fair will also be held during these hours. Books make great Christmas gifts!

Get well wishes to Mel Dow, Carol Morton and to Merton Perkins who is a surgical patient at CMMC in Lewiston.

Welcome to the new neighbors in town, Robert and Debra Ann Bias who are living in the former Ruth Graham house in North Andover. New occupants of the parsonage are Joel and Kelly Wilkinson and daughter Emme Jo. Mr. Wilkinson is serving as the new game warden for the area.

A double birthday supper was held Friday at the Four Seasons Cafe to celebrate the Oct. 24 birthday of Betty Davis, and to celebrate her mother, Norma Farrington's over the hill birthday on Oct. 25. Among those helping to celebrate the occasions were Lester and Jean White, Scott and Tina Farrington, Foster Davis, Danny White, Marilyn Morton, James and Alice Sennett, Mark and Sharon Farrington, David and Betsey White, Grace Simmons and Bev and Bill Swan.

East Andover postal customers are humored by the arrival of their new official outside drop box which is anxiously awaiting the rush of holiday mail. Postmaster Betty Davis noted in a routine report to the postal service that the outside box was kind of weather beaten and would probably benefit from a coat of paint. She was later notified that a new larger drop box had been ordered to replace the old one. The original drop box was that of Postmaster Mrs. Mary Crooker, the mother of Bill and George, from the post office that she managed at their residence. It is dated 1922 and was donated to the Andover Historical Society. The antique was certainly adequate as the collection 04226 in the outside box rarely exceeds one or two letters a day.

Congratulations to Debi Bodwell and Ken Buck of Cornville, for the birth of their first child, Justin Lee. He was born on Sept. 21, 1996 at the Reddington Hospital in Skowhegan, weighing 7 pounds, 3 ounces. Maternal grandparents are Jim and Liz Bodwell, Maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Marion Bodwell of Bethel. Paternal grandparents are Ken and Coty Buck of Port Gibson, N.Y.

Congratulations to Rick Bodwell and Kristen Leighton who were married at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel, by Rev. Ron Ashworth on July 13, 1996. A reception followed at the Bethel Inn. The maid of honor was Chantal Kimball and bridesmaids were Debi Bodwell and Rachel Foley. The best man was Kevin Leighton and ushers were Steven Pappas and Craig Leighton. Courtney Foley and Kayla Leighton were junior bridesmaid attendants. Matthew Foley served as ring bearer. Rick is the son of Liz and Jim Bodwell of Andover. Kristen is the daughter of Porter and Patricia Leighton of Bridgton. The couple enjoyed a honeymoon in Nantucket, Mass. Kristen is an Oxford Hills graduate and is a teacher in the Falmouth school district. Rick is a Telstar graduate and manager of the Maine Mall Nordic Track store. The couple will soon move from Yarmouth to a new home in South Portland.

MAINE

North Newry

by
Gil Seeley

Church services were held at the Newry Community Church on Sunday with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day was: "True Beauty" from St. Luke 12:13, "The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment."

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jolly of Chelton, P.E.I., Canada were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell Sr. on Monday and Tuesday.

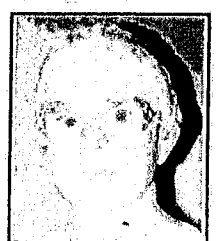

Bowling at the Oxford Lanes were Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley, Beal Lowell, Doris Parent and Olive Anderson. On the overall scores Karlene was high on both the singles and triples. Of the righties, Doris was high on both the singles and triples. Karlene had four spares, Gil had two spares, Olive had two strikes and Beal had one strike and one spare.

My 89th birthday was celebrated by two parties. One with friends Sylvia Gray, Beth Bean, Olive Anderson, Betsy Clark, Beal Lowell and Karlene Bachelder at the town building. Sylvia Wight couldn't make it, but delivered a gift and card at the house. Doris Parent also missed the party. A card came from down south from Donnie, Christine and Brent Bachelder. Many gifts were received and ice cream and cake enjoyed. I love you all. Thank you, thank you!

Another birthday celebration on Thursday with relatives from Rhode Island. Theresa Toti, Rosie Enos and Jackie Krammelis. Wonderful! Thank you all. I also received many cards from all over. You have made me very happy.

Belated happy 17th birthday to Dani Littlehale.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Oct. 21 for a regular meeting and Halloween program. There were 18 present. Connie Tuttle, State Deputy and Deaf Awareness Chairman, was present. Several members came in costume. Business was conducted and the program was as follows: Opening thought by Bertha Benoit; opening song by all, "By the Light of the Silvery Moon"; reading, the origins of Halloween costumes by Bertha Benoit; Chinese auction; Dot Canwell played and whistled and Richard Felt played his harmonica; costumes were judged as follows: Peggy Blake, prettiest; Joe Yates, funniest; Bertha Benoit, most original; Kathleen McAllister and Olive Risko, most like Halloween; Alice Hoyt, most historical; Peggy read a poem about Halloween, written by Bertha Benoit; closing thought; closing song. Next meeting will be Nov. 4.

Sunday dinner guests of the Ken Hoyts were Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover; JoAnn, David, Ray and Shawn Crockett; and Beal Farnum. They gathered to celebrate JoAnn's birthday.

Every Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. and Thursday at 7 p.m. is Bryant Pond Hour on Channel IV TV. On Sunday, Nov. 3, everyone is invited to family night at the Awana Room of the Baptist Church. There will be a family supper and hymn sing. Please bring a salad, hot dish or dessert to share and also your own place setting. Come visit with the pilgrims. This is for the whole family and children are more than welcome.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet at the Bryant Pond Grange Hall on Thursday, Nov. 7, for a meeting with dinner put on by the W.H.S. alumni. They will serve turkey with all the fixin's.

Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will meet on Nov. 4 for inspection at South Paris VFW Hall with Norway Tent and East Stoneham Tent. There will be a supper before the meeting.

Michael Hathaway was the guest of honor recently at a reception given by Barbara Hathaway, Susan Glines and Linda Stowell at the home of his mother Barbara Hathaway. Mr. Hathaway's book, "Everything Happened Around the Switchboard" was recently published. The book is a collection of memoirs of his family's thirty-year involvement with the Bryant Pond Telephone Company which was based in the family's living room.

Mr. Hathaway, who resides in Madison, N.H., is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music and is a retired band director. Mike also holds a D.C.H. degree in hypnosis and is founder and director of the White Mountain Hypnosis Center in Madison. Books are currently available from family members and will be at book stores soon!

Curtis Hill Road is getting quite populated. Darren Brown is in the process of building a new home near Dennis Poland's. It is coming along quite well and looks like it will be done soon and ready for the family to enjoy.

Congratulations to Lee and Virginia Herrick on their 40th wedding anniversary last week.

I just had to call my granddaughter, Sarah Hart, this week to see how she was faring due to lack of water in Portland. She went out and purchased some bottled water to get by. There wasn't any school at SMTC. I've heard that the water has been restored now. Hopefully, the roads and buildings will be back to normal soon.

I went to West Paris and had my annual flu shot this week. Hope it works. Before returning home I stopped by and visited with Beverly Stevens for a while.

Mrs. Merrill held a craft sale at the Union Church this past weekend. I hope she made out well.

Endy Phillips is doing quite well in field hockey this season.

Our dusk-to-dawn light finally blew a bulb. It is quite high and we hired Tim Kuvaja to put in a new one. Works fine now; we sure missed it.

Don't forget to vote in November. This is an important election in many issues.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that at the October meeting Ruth Cox held a silent auction. Kathleen Bean ran a film and Helvi Cary announced committees for the year. About 26 people were present, including two visitors. Refreshments were organized by Alice Hoyt and Mary Billings. The November meeting will be a film on the Awesome Auto Tour with Emery Ricker showing trophies that he has won on car shows.

Word has been received that former resident Marie (Hibler) Otto is recuperating at home after having a heart attack. Her address is 5218 Mt. Olive Road, Polk City, Fla., 33868-9735. I am sure she would like to receive cards from those who knew her.

Also, a former resident, Violet Hibler, has moved from her home in Lakeland to the home of her daughter Ginny and husband Nelson Chamberlain. Her new address is 1242 Maple Court, Hornell, N.Y.

Former Gov. Dan Walker of Illinois and wife Lillian Stewart Walker have returned home to San Diego after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ellingwood.

Liz Young has returned home after spending three weeks in Oslo, Norway visiting her friend Lars Paulson.

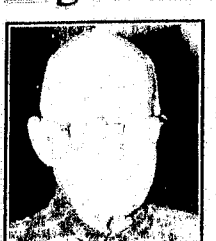

Our sympathy is extended to Bruce Tyner and family upon the death of his father, Clarence Tyner.

The Hunter's Family and Public Breakfast will be on Nov. 2 at the Historical Society building. Services will start at 5 a.m. and you'll be able to fill your tummy!

Also on Saturday, Nov. 2, the Annual Fall Sale at the First Universalist Church at the Goodwill Hall will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be crafts, food, "what not's" and sandwiches and beef stew, corn chowder and salmon chowder. Sounds good, doesn't it?

Much sympathy goes to the family and friends of Haven (Hutch) Hutchinson due to his sudden death. We will certainly miss our "neighbor."

High Street

West Paris

Howdy friends. It's a wet Monday morning here on High Street and I'm glad that I don't need to work outside today. Next week at this time, we'll be back on standard time, but I'm not looking forward to it.

We were downtown on Tuesday as I had a doctor's appointment. He thought I was doing real well after my hospitalization.

I accompanied Peggy on Wednesday to Ron Heath's Garage on Old County Road, to have the power steering checked in her car. It has been doing a lot of moaning and groaning. We learned that to stop the moaning, the car will have to have a different power steering pump. These automobiles are a lot like many people, there is usually something wrong that needs fixing.

When we came back from Ron's we went to North Paris so I could show Peggy where our niece Beverly Andrews lives. Peggy had never been there. We continued on over roads, new to us, but it was a beautiful day and the scenery was all beautiful. The foliage was in prime color. We finally came out on Paris Hill and from there home. We had enjoyed our afternoon ride to the fullest.

Thursday forenoon I did some work around the mobile home to make it more weatherproof. I had to doctor a leaking roof and use some caulking compound to help keep the snow out. That afternoon Peggy had an appointment, with Dr. Mason in Bethel, to have some dental work done. I went along for the ride.

Thursday evening we attended the West Paris Grange. It was just a short meeting, so we were back home quite early.

Friday evening our niece, Wynona Woolf and her two daughters Courtney and Karriann from Auburn called on us. They came to pick up some baked goods that Peggy made for the food sale they were having. Courtney had a trip to Australia last summer and is hoping to join a group going to other countries next summer. The food sale was to help raise expenses.

Lucy Ridley from Norway came to our home on Saturday afternoon and the three of us headed for Aziscoos Grange in Wilson's Mills, where we were to have a 6 p.m. supper and attend the grange meeting. We picked up Bertha Benoit and Laura Hutchins so we had a full car. We saw a big bull moose and a cow moose as well as a red fox. We were part of the visiting Grangers there, but there was a total of 25 visiting Grangers. We had an excellent supper and enjoyed the whole evening. By request from one of their members, I dressed up and spoke one of my readings about paint not drying on a toilet seat. They enjoyed it.

Doc Merrill came up to have dinner with us on Sunday and stayed a while in the afternoon on visit.

Alan Lovejoy has been a visitor at the Lovejoy home on High Street twice this past week.

Kathleen Holden visited Mary Lovejoy on Tuesday.

Mary Lovejoy called on our neighbors, Grant and Grace LaRose, to bid them goodbye before they leave for Florida. Mary also visited Marsha Baxter at her home in Oxford on Wednesday. She made a dooryard call on Chris Whittemore of South Paris on her way home.

Richard Felt of Bryant Pond visited the Lovejoy home on Thursday.

There will be a dance at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 2 with more of that good music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

Don't forget the Craft, Food and White Elephant Sale at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 2 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There are still a few tables available at $3 each. To reserve your tables, call Peggy Blake at 674-3872 or Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147. The Cookie Walk will be used again at this sale and the cans are all ready for the cookies.

Oxford Pomona Grange will be hosted by Norway Grange on Nov. 5.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

The recent news reports of the drug epidemic that is sweeping our nation is both alarming and disheartening. There was such an epidemic back in the seventies, but mostly involved college students. The present epidemic however, we are being told, is with boys and girls from the sixth grade up. It further stated there has been a 72-percent increase in the use of drugs over the past four years. This is certainly a cause for great alarm and concern, both to the families of America and the Christian church.

It first of all has to be a sad reflection upon the homes of America, the very foundation of society as we know it. As the old adage says, "So goes the home, so goes America." I believe the Bible, the Word of God, has the answer to the way out of this dilemma. There is a wonderful promise in Proverbs 6:22 in the Old Testament, that goes like this: "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

In all of history no promise of God has ever failed. I firmly believe we need to get back to the moral and spiritual values of our founding fathers, when the Bible had a prominent place in the family home where it was read and obeyed. I believe that the historical record will confirm this. They had nothing like the present scourge of dope addiction that is being currently reported, even 50 years ago, a time I personally can remember.

This situation is also a challenge to the Christian church to make a greater effort to reach these children at an earlier age, before the dope peddler does. For some time I have been concerned at the lack of emphasis that the Sunday School is getting in the ministry of the local church. Many churches report low attendance while other churches have Sunday School only nine months a year. We need to be reminded that the Sunday School is the future church. It is a matter of record that 80 percent of church members come from the Sunday School. I trust that all people reading and agreeing with these lines will start praying for a revival of our Sunday Schools, to reach these boys and girls before the dope peddlers do.

HEALTHY LIVING

The Story on Breast Cancer

by Thomas M. O'Meara, M.D. - Riverside Family Health Center

Photograph courtesy of American Cancer Society

The story on breast cancer is one of good news and bad news. The bad news is that the incidence of breast cancer has been steadily increasing over the past 55 years. In the United States a woman's life long chance of developing breast cancer is about 12 percent and 3.5 percent of all women will die of this disease.

The good news is that in the face of the rising rate of this disease the death rate from breast cancer has remained stable over that same time period. In plain English, even though more women are developing breast cancers, a greater percentage of them are being successfully treated and cured. The keys to this improving picture are means of earlier detection and effective treatment that had not been available to previous generations of women.

We still do not know exactly what causes breast cancer in the first place. Almost certainly there is more than one cause. Medical studies over the years have been able to show that female sex hormones, particularly estrogen play an important role in the growth of breast cancers, but scientists stop short of saying that estrogen all by itself is the cause of the disease. Pharmacologic use of these hormones allows women to have safe and effective means of birth control as well as preventing osteoporosis and heart disease in post-menopausal women. One has to weigh the benefit versus the potential risks of hormone use.

With other medical conditions, doctors have been able to point to identify specific preventive measures that individuals may take to reduce their risk of disease. In the case of lung cancer, quitting smoking or not smoking in the first place will greatly lessen one's chances of getting lung cancer. With breast cancer unfortunately there isn't the same compelling evidence, that making particular changes in your life style or habits is going to significantly improve your chances of avoiding breast cancer.

At the present time, the best approach to this problem is to try to detect it at the earliest possible stage. The three pronged approach includes breast self exam, clinical breast exam performed by your doctor, and mammography, which is a special x-ray test.

The likelihood of breast cancer increases with age. The American Cancer Society recommends that women, who have no symptoms of breast cancer have a mammogram every 1 to 2 years between ages 40 to 50, and then yearly after age 50. It is estimated that this type of routine screening can reduce death from breast cancer by 25 percent.

While all women face the risk of developing breast cancer, some individuals are at much greater peril. About 5 to 10 percent of women who get breast cancers have inherited a breast cancer susceptibility gene. A woman who carries one of these defective genes has an almost 50 percent chance of getting breast cancer by age 50 and 90 percent chance by age 70. Testing for defective genes is complicated and expensive task. Consequently it is not feasible to offer gene testing on a routine screening basis at this time.

As scientist learn more about just how these defective genes lead to breast cancer, we may hope to see ways of either preventing it in the first place or improved means of detection and treatment. In the meantime women should be encouraged that early detection by means of breast self exam, clinical exam and mammography greatly improves their chances of surviving this disease.

Help Your Heart Recipes

This recipe is intended to be part of an overall healthful eating plan. Total fat intake should be less than 30 percent of your total calories for a day — not for each food or recipe.

Nutmeg Bread

Vegetable oil spray	½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup acceptable margarine*	½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup sugar	1 tablespoon freshly grated nutmeg or 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 egg, well beaten	1 cup low-fat buttermilk
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Preheat oven to 350 F. Lightly spray a 9-x-5-inch loaf pan with vegetable oil.

In a mixing bowl, cream margarine and sugar with mixer. Add egg and mix well.

In a separate bowl, sift dry ingredients together twice. Add flour mixture and buttermilk alternately to egg mixture, beginning and ending with flour.

Pour batter into prepared loaf pan and bake 45 to 60 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes and remove bread from pan to cooling rack.

Note: This bread freezes well. Serves 16; 1 slice per serving

*Select margarine with liquid oil as the first ingredient and no more than 2 gm of saturated fat per tablespoon.

Plantars Warts

by Madeleine Bedard Ryan, DPM - Mountainside Health Services, Gorham Office

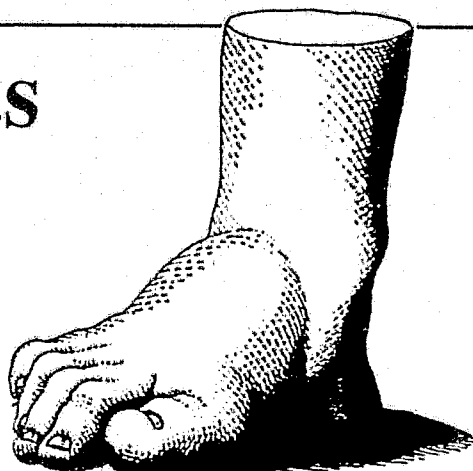

Plantar warts are benign growths of skin caused by the human papilloma virus. There are many different subtypes of this virus which affect skin on different parts of the body. One particularly bothersome area to develop warts is on the bottom of the foot. Since the bottom of the foot is known as the "plantar" aspect of the foot, warts that occur here are known as "plantar warts". Because skin here is naturally thicker and more prone to callusing, warts in this area may become painful after standing or walking. For these reasons, people often seek help in getting rid of these warts.

The bottom of the foot is exposed to friction, plantar warts often become covered by callus tissue and appear very much like a regular corn or callus. There are several clues that can help a person differentiate between a corn or a plantar wart. Warts will generally appear over a relatively short period of time in an area where no callus tissue has been noted before. Corns and calluses usually develop very gradually over several years time. Warts are extremely common in children, teenagers, and young adults. Corns and calluses are very rare in this age group. Warts are sensitive to pinching while corns and calluses are more sensitive to direct pressure. Warts generally have tiny black dots in their center that bleed easily if attempts are made to trim them. Corns and calluses do not bleed when trimmed unless the healthy tissue surrounding them is accidentally cut.

There are countless treatment methods available to help rid of plantar warts. The decision whether or not to treat a wart generally depends on whether or not the wart is multiplying and how much it is bothering the person. In situations where a wart is not causing any discomfort and is not multiplying, it is sometimes decided not to treat it as it will generally go away on its own within a year or two.

When a decision is made to treat a plantar wart, the choice of treatment can also vary. Factors taken into consideration are: the person's age and how long the wart has been there, how much callus tissue is over the wart, the number of warts and how close they are to each other, and the activity level of the patient.

For those people who want to try treating their plantar warts at home before seeing their physician, there are several over-the-counter wart removers that can be helpful when properly used. The key to their success is generally in regular application of the remover to the area for several weeks. It is also important to file away as much of the overlying callus tissue as possible so that the medication can properly penetrate the wart. If such treatment does not yield results after several weeks, it is generally best to seek professional help. Professional help is also recommended for those people who are not sure that what they have is a wart, or who may be at risk of complication due to conditions such as diabetes or poor circulation.

Telstar in Class D regionals

Oct. 26--The Telstar boys' team finished seventh in a field of 12 in regional competition. While the team did not qualify for state competition, Jason Billings did qualify as an individual runner. He finished 15th in Saturday's competition. Other Rebel finishers: Jerry Bernier (30th); Dana Howe (32nd); Scott Lane (36th). The Rebel girls did not score as a team. Jenny Sue Howe finished 26th.

Boys' Reserve Soccer

Gould 1, Hebron 0

Oct. 24--Joo Nam Park scored for Gould off a pass from Bobby East with six minutes to play, propelling the Huskies over Hebron Academy Thursday. The reserve team finished their season with a 6-1 record.

Varsity Field Hockey

Gould 1, Brewster 0

Oct. 23--Payson Halsey scored the game-winner off a pass from Meredith Mason midway through the second, as Gould topped Brewster Academy last Wednesday. Gould took 18 shots on goal to Brewster's 19 in an evenly matched defensive game. Goalie Kate Graham earned the shutout for the Huskies, whose record now stands at 9-1.

PLAYING TOUGH

The Telstar High School soccer team captured its first playoff victory in eight years last Wednesday, defeating North Yarmouth Academy, 2-1. Strong defense, led by Jason Berry, and outstanding net minding by Wade Luxton combined with timely goal scoring by Jason Rosenberg and Chris Vaughan. Eight minutes into the match, Tony Buker put a rush on the North Yarmouth defender and pushed the ball away from the charging keeper. Jason Rosenberg was on the spot to put the ball in the net. With the score tied at one late in the game, Chris Vaughan one-timed a half-volley low into the corner for what proved to be the game-winner. The Rebels take on No. 1-ranked Falmouth today (Wednesday) at Falmouth, in a Western Class C semifinal matchup. Here, Telstar's Jeremy Lappam (1) tries to get to the ball before the NYA goalie can make the save.

REASON TO CELEBRATE--Telstar High School's No.1-ranked varsity field hockey team won its first-round playoff game Friday against St. Dominic's, 7-0. Beth Howe, Sarah Richardson and Liza Fyberg scored two goals each and Michelle McInnis added another in the win. Goalie Jessie Wight had four saves. The lady Rebels take on Jay High School today (Wednesday) at Telstar in a Western Class C semi-final playoff game. Here, the team celebrates last week's victory with cakes made by Shirley Walker.

We hope you are planning to come and watch the Halloween parade at 2 p.m. on Thursday.

We thoroughly enjoyed our Maine Studies Week. Several classes enjoyed watching a video called High On Maine, thanks to Carlene Manson. Guest readers and musicians visited every class. Superintendent Mark Eastman visited two classes and read a story. The third-graders are now writing a sequel to send back to him. State Representative Brenda Birney visited grades five and six and read excerpts from books by Louise Dickinson Rich. She shared pictures of the Rangeley area, and left a packet of information about Maine and the state government. Our librarian, Kathy Davis, spent extra time with us to read Maine stories with all classes. Our language arts coordinator, Becky Cummings, read to Grade Six. Nicholas Clements came in to share poetry with my fifth grade. Ben Tucker of South Paris read a story, that he had written, to the second grade. The story is called "The Coonskin Cap," and of course he brought in a coonskin cap for all to check out. Cynthia Tinsley, Reid, Sienna and Tyler Tinsley, who volunteer on a regular basis, came in for extra projects about Maine. Mr. Don Mayberry entertained the second grade with his guitar and a selection of folk songs. Several parents of our students volunteered their talents also. Mrs. Patty Makley read and did an activity with grades one and four. Mrs. Michelle Blake read stories and did activities with grades one and four. Mrs. Maggie Dow shared with grade four. Mr. Rick Blake and daughter, Mrs. Becky Kangas, performed music for all of us. Mr. Blake stayed on to share the adventure of setting up a radio station with grades four, five and six. All teachers included some activities and lessons to further promote our week. Definitely worth the effort.

Ranks close on Nov. 1. Progress reports will be coming home on Friday, Nov. 8, and parent teacher conferences will be held on Nov. 12. Scheduling brothers and sisters back to back will be done again this year as usual. Be sure to return your conference slip to let us know whether afternoon or evening is best for you.

Our Cherrydale Farms fundraiser was very successful, despite a mix-up concerning when to collect the money. Thanks to everyone for understanding and cooperating!

Our West Paris Volunteers are doing so much for our schools. We appreciate your support.

Please Help Save Maine's Woods. Vote YES on 2A to Ban Clearcutting

Over 7,000 woods-related jobs have been lost since 1985. Bowater-Great Northern has lost 2,200 jobs in recent years. Logging employment in Maine declined by 48% from 1984-94.

The Governor's Compact with the paper corporations will not stop clearcutting, will more than double the average size of a clearcut, encourage spraying of toxic chemicals, and threaten local control.

This clearcut won't produce another job in your lifetime.
